Newton-Wellesley Hospital Aid Association Rendering Valuable Aid To The Hospital

The directors of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Aid Association Inc. met Tuesday morning for the first meeting of the new season. Mrs. Theron B. Walker, president, and Miss Florence Marble were hostesses of the morning assisted by Mrs. Franklin W. Scott and Mrs. Edwin T. Gibbs. The guest speaker was Gerhard Hartman, director of the hospital.

Interesting resumes were given by Mrs. Walker and the secretary, Mrs. Carlos T. Pierce, of the financial results of the dessert bridge of May and the directors' meeting of June when $25,000 was pledged by the association to the hospital building fund. This gift will go toward the quarters in the new wing of the hospital for the Aid's Coffee Shop.

The financial standing of the Aid was disclosed through the treasurer's report read by the assistant treasurer, Mrs. Edwin T. Gibbs. The Aid's fund-raising projects are the Coffee Shop, now in its third year, the Benefit Shop on Washington street, Newtonville, and the annual dessert bridge. In addition, dues and gifts from the 1200 members of the Aid from the Newtons and Wellesley have brought the total income this year to $15,000.00 It was voted to purchase a microscope for the School of Nursing. Purchases through the summer authorized by the executive committee were announced as including four fracture boards, a suction apparatus and a freezing microtone.

Mrs. Francis H. Williams, manager of the Benefit Shop, announced that the annual treasure sale would be held in the Nurses' Home on the second Tuesday of November, at the time of the Aid's monthly meeting. She asked for treasure, and gifts for the sale—dolls, ornaments, dishes and aprons. She stressed the needs of the Shop, including cotton dresses in large sizes, 42 and 44, lamps, books and kitchen tables.

Mrs. Walter L. McGill, chairman of the Coffee Shop told of the new ventilating system and large window installed in the Shop which made the work of the many volunteers through the summer more pleasant. She spoke also of the continued success of the gift shop under the direction of Mrs. Edward J. Sawyer.

Mr. Hartman stressed, in his talk, the continued importance of the work of volunteers in the hospitals of the country. He said that the war emergency is not ended and that the need for volunteers is great and increasing daily. There is no early return promised for the entire complement of employees. Hospitals urgently need 32,000 graduate registered nurses and 40,000 volunteer Nurses' Aides who are already trained, Mr. Hartman said. The veteran hospitals are critically understaffed. It is important that the nearly 200,000 women who have completed Red Cross Nurse's Aide training devote as much time as possible to the hospitals which so urgently need their help. Mr. Hartman ended on the strain that now is not the time for volunteers to relax in their services.

Understand that the new post-war jeeps will have three speeds—first, second and compound fracture!
